The New York State Office of Language Access (OLA), housed within the Office of General Services (OGS), provides key oversight and support to executive agencies covered under the language access law. Among those agencies is the Office of Addiction Services and Supports (OASAS), whose Office of Justice, Equity, Diversity & Inclusion (JEDI) oversees the provision of language services and is tasked with examining policies, practices and developing goals using an equity lens and implementing change that is anti-racist, trauma informed, LGBTQ+ affirming and centered on the integration of equitable practices and the inclusion of all.

Chanel J. Lopez is the First Transwoman to be an Appointee for the first woman Governor of NYS, Kathy Hochul. As the NYS Deputy Director of LGBTQ Affairs, she works with state agencies to further advance equality and equity for the LGBTQ+ community.

We Can Do This... Three Steps Toward the Antiracist Journey

Mary Pender Greene, LCSW-R, CGP, President and CEO, MPG Consulting

Antiracist work is both an attitude and a mindset. Being an Antiracist Leader requires becoming a critical lover of your organization. This means creating an inclusive environment that allows ALL people to bring their full selves to work and feel treasured by the institution and their colleagues. Mary Pender Greene, LCSW-R, a pioneer in antiracist work, will address common barriers, pose questions to ask yourself, and explore the pockets of resistance to avoid when becoming an antiracist organization. Participants will learn the principles of:

- 1–Turning the mirror inward
 - 2–Changing the narrative
 - 3–Training your eyes to see, your ears to hear, and your voice to become racially fluent

These Kids Today.....Generation as an Aspect of Cultural Identity

Liliane Drago, MA, CASAC Master Counselor, MAC, Director, Outreach Training Institute

How strong is generation as a cultural variable? At times, it may seem that Millennials and Gen Z'ers have more in common with each other than with Boomer or Gen X members of their own race or ethnicity. We will take a look at generational identity and how when we were born may affect our worldview and behavior. Awareness of generational differences may increase our effectiveness in engaging clients and colleagues, managing teams, and leading organizations.

Before serving as Lieutenant Governor, Delgado enjoyed a career in the music industry focused on empowering young people through hip hop; worked as an attorney focusing on complex commercial litigation, while dedicating significant time to pro bono work in connection with criminal justice reform; and served in the U.S. House representing New York's 19th Congressional District. Delgado was the first person of color to represent upstate New York in Congress. While there, he focused on improving the lives of New Yorkers, working with local, state, and federal partners — regardless of party — to get results. From improving access to quality, affordable health care, to fighting for universal Pre-K, to serving our nation's veterans, to protecting our small businesses and family farms, Delgado was an effective legislator who achieved results. Eighteen of his bills were signed into law under two different presidents and he was recognized by various organizations throughout his tenure in Congress for his bipartisan work. His legislative accomplishments include passage of his Family Farmer Relief Act, the Strengthening Financial Aid for Students Act, and the Improving Benefits for Underserved Veterans Act, among others. When the pandemic hit, Delgado shifted his focus to securing federal support for frontline and essential workers and small businesses. He successfully secured much-needed loan repayment relief for small businesses and his Direct Support for Communities Act delivered $10.8 billion to New York State counties, cities, towns, and villages for economic recovery. Delgado served as Chairman of the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Commodity Exchanges, Energy, and Credit as well as the House Small Business and Transportation & Infrastructure Committees.

Established in 1983 as a result of the AIDS crisis, New York City's Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual & Transgender Community Center has grown and evolved over the last four decades, creating and delivering services that empower people to lead healthy, successful lives. With its doors open 365 days a year, The Center welcomes over 6,000 visitors weekly, providing recovery and wellness programs, economic advancement initiatives, family and youth support, advocacy, arts and cultural events, and space for community organizing and connection.
